The manuscript of Cecilia was submitted to Dr Burney and Mr Crisp during its composition, and their suggestions were in some cases adopted, as we learn from theDiary. Dr Johnson was not consulted, but a desire at once to imitate and to please him evidently controlled the work. Under these circumstances it is naturally less fresh and spontaneous than Evelina, but it is more mature. The touch is surer and the plot more elaborate. We cannot to-day fully appreciate the “conflict scene between mother and son,” for which, Miss Burney tells us, the book was written; but the pictures of eighteenth century affectations are all alive, and the story is thoroughly absorbing, except, perhaps, in the last book. Miss Burney often took the name of her characters from her acquaintances, and it seems probable that some of the “types” in Cecilia are also drawn from real life. The title of Miss Austen's Pride and Prejudice was borrowed from Cecilia, and some points of resemblance may be traced between the two novels.

While on a mission to prove to Merlin that they can use magic wisely, Jack and Annie travel to seventeenth-century Venice, Italy, to save the city from a disastrous flood.
Miyahida also talks about important things with children through the food education picture book! Just look at the appearance in everything, and often misjudge the truth! In the kitchen cupboard. The long chopsticks used for cooking said, Ah! I hate it, I hate it... It's been two days in this small and dark place! The soup pot said, Really! We used to make it with the owner every morning, noon, and evening. Cooking, how happy it is!" The spoon said, "It's all the fault of those guys..." "Oh, oh, oh--I can't help it! Let me, this kitchen knife, and those guys Let's decide the outcome! Chopper jumped out and said.
