In this edited collection, authors from various academic, cultural, racial, linguistic, and personal backgrounds use critical discourse analysis as a conceptual framework and method to examine social inequities, identity issues, and linguistic discrimination faced by historically oppressed groups in schools and society. Language, Race, and Power in Schools unravels the ways and degrees to which these groups have faced and resisted oppression, and draws on critical discourse analysis to examine how multiple forms of oppression intersect. This volume interrogates areas of discrimination and injustice and discusses possibilities of developing coalitions and concerted efforts across the lines of diversity.

Higher Education is not about furthering one’s academic education: it’s about evolving as a human; about rising to be the best one can be; about defining success; and choosing the life one wants to live. For anyone interested in seeking personal development, not only for oneself, but for the greater good, Higher Education will provoke readers to take a hard look at their beliefs to see if they are up to the challenge – and inspire others to do the same.
