Summary of A Court of Thorns and Roses Feyre is hunting to feed her family, but she wishes she could just hang out and paint. Under her huntress exterior lays the heart of an artist. This first chapter actually reads a bit like the Hunger Games, but it seems pretty unfair to complain just because a different female character is hunting. She's about to kill a doe, but a massive wolf attacks it. Feyre isn't sure if the wolf is a faerie or an animal because it's "the size of a pony", but just in case, she kills it using an ash arrow that she just happened to buy last year (ash is deadly to Faeries). For a moment, I wished I had it in me to feel remorse for the dead thing. But this was the forest, and it was winter. Girl means business. We also find out that sometimes Feyre hooks up with Isaac, but he's nothing special. I actually really dug that this story has a protagonist that isn't a virgin and never apologizes for it (nor did anyone ever try to make her feel like she should apologize for it.) No time is wasted with Feyre pining over Isaac as though there's a chance in hell she will wind up with his human ass. When nineteen-year-old huntress Feyre kills a wolf in the woods, a terrifying creature arrives to demand retribution. Dragged to a treacherous magical land she knows about only from legends, Feyre discovers that her captor is not truly a beast, but one of the lethal, immortal faeries who once ruled her world. At least, he's not a beast all the time. As she adapts to her new home, her feelings for the faerie, Tamlin, transform from icy hostility into a fiery passion that burns through every lie she's been told about the beautiful, dangerous world of the Fae. But something is not right in the faerie lands. An ancient, wicked shadow is growing, and Feyre must find a way to stop it, or doom Tamlin—and his world—forever. From bestselling author Sarah J. Maas comes a seductive, breathtaking book that blends romance, adventure, and faerie lore into an unforgettable read.
