Loyalty is tested to its limits in this thrilling English Civil War adventure. In the opening days of 1644, there seems to be little hope for Parliament's soldiers. To William Sparrow and his men, the woods of Dorset are a snow-covered sanctuary – even on Christmas Day – from the horrors of Penmethock and pursuit by the King's men. Hugo Telling has finally returned home, ready to introduce his 'wife', Bella Morrison, to his family. But the Telling family is now as affected by the war as any in England; Hugo's brother has volunteered – but on Parliament's side.. When Hugo and Bella make their way back to Prince Rupert's stronghold in Oxford, they must consider their justifications for Hugo's absence. Surprisingly Bella is ordered to the Queen's service, and now it is up to her to save Hugo – if, for the first time, she is able to put another's needs above her own. And all the while the Scots, the hardest fighters of all, are making their way through the North of England, bringing new dangers and new fear to the torment that is the civil war. The fifth instalment of The Shadow on the Crown series, Stand by the Colours is perfect for fans of Conn Iggulden and David Gilman.

The healing power of love... In 1757 a deadly common bond unites strong-willed Alice Winslow, a girl from New Hampshire Colony whose family was massacred by Abnaki Indians, and Nathaniel Hawke, a half-savage frontiersman who was raised by the Mohawk after his family was killed by a Huron war party. As England and France vie for control of the North America with the aid of their Indian allies, Alice and Nathaniel embark on a dangerous journey through enemy territory to rescue a little boy being held for ransom by the unscrupulous Frenchman who spearheaded the massacres that have brought these two survivors together. On their trek through the New York wilderness they confront a charge of sedition, warring Indian tribes, a bitterly cold winter, betrayal, abduction, and the harsh realities of life and death, only to be transformed along the way by the healing power of love and a simple act of mercy.
