

Wanting children to have fun and being afraid of quarreling their neighbors is a common trouble for many urban families. Respect for others. First of all, we must understand each other's mood to create a win-win situation! Boom boom boom boom! Where is this loud noise coming from? It turned out that the older brother and younger brother were playing Superman! They ran around the house, jumped up and down, and had a lot of fun. As a result, the neighbor's grandpa downstairs came up and rang the doorbell, Ding Dong! Ding Dong! Grandpa asked, Little friend, is there an elephant here? The boys bowed their heads embarrassedly. Soon after, the elder brother and younger brother started to race again. Who ran fast, they ignored their mother's warning.
