If you answered YES to any of these questions, then Keep Reading because this is the Cookbook you were looking for! A bread machine, also known as the bread maker, is a type of appliance that turns ingredients into baked bread. It comes with a bread pan at the bottom, which looks like paddles in a pizza oven. The bread machine is often controlled by a display panel. The first bread maker was founded in Japan in 1986 by Panasonic.

The purpose of this machine was to train the head bakers to knead bread. As it was industrialized, more companies started creating their own version of the bread machine.

Some added a cooling fan at the bottom to allow the machine to cool off after use. Not too long after, it became famous in the United States, Europe, and Australia. The bread machine is an all-in-one appliance. It takes the guesswork out of making bread by mixing, kneading, proving, and baking the dough. Usually, the bread machine takes a few hours to make a loaf. Once done, the pan is removed from within the bread-maker, which leaves a small hole from the rod where the paddle is attached. Do not be put off by the odd shape of the bread from the machine. It is normal to produce vertical, square, or cylindrical loaves, which is very different from commercialized loaves. This Cookbook covers the following topics: The essential ingredients and tips to prepare an exceptional ketogenic bread that will not make you miss the traditional one Everything you need to know about the ketogenic diet What is a bread machine? Delicious recipes for creating keto breakfasts with bread Easy recipes for creating keto lunches with bread Best recipes for creating keto dinners with bread ...And much more! The typical bread maker comes with a built-in timer to control the start and end of the bread-making process. Most machines have a delayed start option, and this allows the bread to start baking even when you are asleep or at work, meaning you'll be greeted by a fresh loaf. Homemade bread tends to go stale faster than commercial bread as it does not contain any preservatives. There is a natural way to preserve your bread, and it includes using a natural leaven and a pre-ferment in the bread machine. The reason behind this is that it contains a form of lactobacilli. The yeast is responsible for the flavor and the rising of the dough. The lactic acid is responsible for the preservation of the bread. The main reason you will love your bread machine is the incredible variety of loaves you can create and enjoy without spending hours in the kitchen. There is something satisfying about popping out fragrant, fresh bread from the bucket, knowing you made it yourself. However, here are some other reasons your bread machine will quickly become your favorite kitchen appliance: Think about how warm your kitchen gets when you bake anything in the oven, especially during the summer months. Escaping heat is money out of your pocket, and even if you have a very well-insulated oven, it still costs more to run an oven than a bread machine. Bake at the next level with your bread machine by making all the different types of bread you usually see at the baker, even the most "exotic" ones it DOESN'T SELL! You go pretty much every day at the bakery. You're in love with the bread's scent and you're so proud that you and your family nourish yourself with fresh bread instead of the packaged one... ...but it is so expensive and also you hate not having total control over the ingredients ("How much sugar is in it?", "Is it organic or not?"). For all of these reasons, you had come up with the idea of buying a bread machine. But most of all, you have always loved baking since you were a little girl,
