

Celebrations

In this new, full-color, revised edition, medieval historians Daniel Diehl and Mark P. Donnelly provide ideas and instructions for planning authentic medieval-themed events, with recipes, costumes, decorations, songs, dances and games.

Between The Two World Wars, the retail world experienced tremendous changes. New forms of competition, expanded networks of communication and transportation, and the proliferation of manufactured goods posed challenges to department store and small shopkeeper alike. In western New York, and in Buffalo and Rochester in particular, retailers were a crucial part of urban life, acting as cultural brokers and civic leaders. They were also cultivators of area pride. Even as they adopted the latest merchandising techniques or stocked the newest items, merchants emphasized their local roots and their ability to put a local spin on national trends and innovations. Regional identity became a powerful selling tool not only during the prosperity of the 1920s but also through the economic crisis of the Great Depression. affected the evolution of American consumer culture. It expands our understanding of American consumerism, demonstrating that local particularities and loyalties could often coexist with, and occasionally challenge, the spread of mass consumption. In her award-winning study, Professor Sarah Elvins provides new insight into the relationship between America's largest metropolises and its smaller centers. Retailers in Buffalo and Rochester did not simply imitate the practices of their counterparts in Manhattan and Chicago; they highlighted their unique ability to serve the wants and needs of their particular markets. By drawing attention to this persistent power of the local, Sales and Celebrations illuminates a neglected aspect of the story of American culture in the interwar period.

Keenly attuned to the play of symbols, this anthropological study explores one of the major manifestations of Chinese popular tradition: the celebration of lunar the New Year. It analyzes a multitude of folk practices within a holistic perspective on Chinese traditional society, crafting a new picture of a world in which the social rhetoric of gender, lineage continuity, and ancestry were challenged by ritual manifestations of iconic symbolism. Viewed through the lens of Chinese imagery, the traditional calendar reveals new stories about the social organization of time as an expression of existential concerns in late imperial Chinese social life.

Did you know legends have it that sambhar originated in the Royal Kitchen of the Thanjavur Maharashtrian Kings? Did you know that poli, pitla, rasa vaangi and daangar were introduced to Thanjavur by a small diaspora of the Maharashtrian immigrants to this province? The Thanjavur Maharashtrian Desastha community, whose origins can be traced to the latter half of the 17th Century, are known for their immense contribution in fostering cuisine, arts, music and literature. Classic Cuisine and Celebrations of the Thanjavur Maharashtrians introduces the reader to the foods and festivities of this diaspora. It also provides an introduction to the pujas, when and how they are performed, with a lot of interesting trivia. Festivals and food go hand in hand. The first part of the book features recipes for the naivedyas, while the second part is devoted to the signature recipes of the Desasthas. It features more than a hundred and fifty recipes ranging from fluffy pooran polis and crunchy ambodes, to a medley of modaks, varieties of mixed rice, kheers, traditional sweets, snacks, chutneys, powders, curries, sambhars and rasams. They contain no onion or garlic and are sattvik in nature. This book is an effort to encourage young home makers to revive traditions they grew up with, to help them relive their festive experiences during their childhood and introduce their children to it. "...As a person in the 8th decade of my life, reading this book gave me happy memories of my own childhood and the various dishes which I enjoyed in my youth particularly cooked by my mother..." "...The book has been written in a very reader-friendly manner so that for every festival, the complete set of dishes are described and various options are so beautifully explained that the recipes themselves may act as a trigger for every person to try her/his own creativity on the culinary front..." "...The colourful photographs enhance the value of the book and literally can lead to mouth-watering anticipation..." – Padma Bhushan N. Vittal (Retd) Central Vigilance Commissioner

Football celebrations are a vital part of the beautiful game. Gooooaaaaa! The Joy of the Football Celebration is all about what happens in the exhilarating moments after a goal. Where once a firm handshake was the norm - with a brief head nod if it had been a really good goal - today we see backflips, finger-pointing, ear-cuffing, badge-bashing, knee-sliding, camera-mugging, thumb-sucking - and sometimes something entirely original and funny. Often, the celebration is instinctive and all the better for it, but others are carefully planned and designed to make a point. Some are controversial or political, and an unfortunate few have resulted in injuries. Peter Crouch, Wayne Rooney, Paul Gascoigne, Jurgen Klinsmann, Jamie Vardy, Raheem Sterling, Alex Morgan, Beбето, finger-wagging Jimmy Bullard, golf club-waving Craig Bellamy, line-sniffing Robbie Fowler - all of them are among the 200-plus celebrations featured in this book. You'll discover exactly what went on - and why.

We have special days we enjoy that we call celebrations when we gather with family and friends. We do fun things like dancing, eating special foods and drinking, giving gifts, singing and other fun things. The Church has special celebrations, too. They are called sacraments... Moments of Celebration can come as planned events or as delight-filled surprises. Such moments can take hours or just a few minutes. These moments can occur in a designated location or anywhere at all. The series Moments of Celebration shows how our experience of celebrating in the seemingly ordinary events of every day connects with, and deepens, the formal rituals that are core to the sacramental life of our Church community. Likewise, the formal rituals give shape and name to our experience of the God who comes to us 'disguised as our life'. (Richard Rohr) Enter these simple stories with the children you are educating and make your days and theirs rich in opportunities for Moments of Celebration!

Patrice M. Dabrowski investigates the nation-building activities of Poles during the decades preceding World War I, when the stateless Poles were minorities within the empires of Russia, Germany, and Austria-Hungary. Could Poles maintain a sense of national identity, or would they become Germans, Austrians, or Russians?

Christmas in Sainly Sweden is the third book in a series of 5 that celebrates Christmas through the eyes of Caleb, a 5 year old little boy. He shares interesting stories about Christmas traditions celebrated in different countries around the world. Some are funny and some are strange. The third country Caleb shares information on in this series is Sainly Sweden. Caleb will tell you why Sweden is called Sainly Sweden and how the people in Sweden celebrate Christmas. Each time Caleb explores a new and interesting country, he can't wait to share what he's learned with all the excited readers out there. Some countries have religious traditions and some have unusual traditions which Caleb will share with the readers. There is always a moral to the story which Caleb will share. In this story about Sainly Sweden, the moral is to give unto others that have less than we do. Christmas isn't all about us and the presents we receive, but about others who won't be celebrating Christmas the way that we do. Give unto others over Christmas so that you can bring happiness to someone less fortunate. Caleb enjoys sharing the moral in each story because he hopes that his friends will learn something new.
