A grieving Duke, a disregarded daughter, an unsuitable love, a trap set to compromise, an unexpected happy ending. Hunter Barrington, Duke of Melton, returned from war a changed man. Grieving his lost love, now the holder of a title that he had never thought to inherit, and expected to marry at the earliest opportunity, what he needed most was someone who could see him, simply as himself. Lady Nerissa Loughbridge, the second daughter, always outshone by her beautiful sister, perpetually reproved for her hoydenish ways. What she needed most was someone who could see her, just for herself, who might allow that her dreams had value, simply because she wished them. Then one day, in the winter woods, they met.... But a few magical weeks of delightful friendship were swept away by the hectic London Season, as Lady Nerissa's transformation from ordinary, to the Incomparable of the Season, brought a flock of suitors, and the Duke's new title made him the catch of the year. Can they find their way back to each other, through all their hearts' confusion? Can Lady Nerissa thaw a heart frozen in grief, and claim it for her own?

This book presents the findings of copy test research on consumer perceptions of heart-health claims in print advertisements for a fictitious cooking oil low in saturated fat, and a vegetable oil spread containing no trans fatty acids. FDA regulations currently ban potentially useful heart-health claims in labeling for many such products, and this restriction also appears to have discouraged similar claims in advertising. One deception-based motivation for the ban would be that the heart-health claims might mislead consumers to believe that the products are healthy in all respects, when in fact they are high in total fat and calories, and their regular use could cause weight gain and associated heart problems unless the products are substituted for less healthy alternatives. Our research tested this deception hypothesis and found no support for it. Adding an explicit heart-health claim to a nutrient content claim (such as "low in saturated fat" or "no trans fats") did not change consumer perceptions of the caloric content of the tested products or otherwise distort perceptions of the products' overall healthiness. These conclusions notwithstanding, our results also suggest that respondents as a whole, including those who did not see a nutrient content claim or a heart-health claim, underestimate the caloric content of cooking oils. Further, respondents did not appear to understand the significant impact that relatively small daily increases in caloric intake can have on long-term weight gain. Our findings emphasize the need for increased consumer education concerning the caloric content of cooking oils, and the implications of even modest changes in caloric intake, from whatever source, on weight gain and heart health.

The sleepy town of Wildwoods was abuzz with romance ever since a doctoral student decided to come there and find everyone's perfect match. When sophisticated city girl Stacie Summers was paired with rugged cowboy Josh Collins, they both thought it was a terrible mistake. After all, they didn't have a thing in common...other than the spark that instantly flared between them. But even though Josh thought his survey result was way off base, he couldn't push the gregarious Stacie from his mind. And Stacie's low opinion of ranchers inched up with her heart rate whenever Josh was around. Could this unlikely friendship turn into something even likelier—love?

Caramel-colored Gabrielle Johnston is a stunningly beautiful girl. However, during her childhood and teen years she was a lot heavier and constantly bullied because of her weight. So as a twenty-something, if someone tells her she's pretty, she doesn't really believe it. But sexy, green-eyed Dr. Vincent Florencio has thought Gabrielle was perfectly beautiful, ever since he first met her years ago. When she moves back to Texas from New York, and by chance they run into each other, the sexual tension between the pair is high. It doesn't take long for them to figure out that they're not going to be able to fight their mutual attraction. The sex between them is super-hot, but will he be able to convince her to hand over her heart?

The Cowboy's Second Chance - Christyne Butler Landon Cartwright was a hero in Maggie Stevens's eyes. The roving cowboy showed up just in time to rescue the Crescent Moon owner from the men trying to steal her land. But the longer the sexy-as-sin loner stayed - working her ranch and bonding with her daughter - the more Maggie knew she was setting herself up for heartbreak... Haunted by tragedy, Landon Cartwright came to Destiny looking for a job. He didn't expect to play rescuer, then fall for his alluring new boss and her daughter. He'd board his horse, earn his pay and hit the road again. Because Maggie was a forever kind of woman. And he wasn't a stick-around kind of guy. Or was he? A Rancher's Honour - Ann Roth There's no room in day-care owner Lana Carpenter's life for casual flings. After all, her dream of adopting a baby is closer to becoming a reality than ever. So why is she still mooning over the sexy cowboy who made her forget everything but the strong, sure feel of his arms around her? It wasn't supposed to be more than one unforgettable night between consenting strangers. But when Sly Pettit spots Lana's photo in the local paper, he grabs at the chance to see her again. The guarded rancher is falling hard for Lana, but it can only end in heartbreak. Unless Sly can trust her with the secrets that keep him from believing that, just maybe, they could have a future together.

The God of the Seas doesn't believe in soul-love. He rules his kingdom with an iron fist. When whalers try to kill his creatures he lets his anger get the best of him. Saving the woman diver unleashes a chain of events and for once in his existence Poseidon doesn't know how to cope with the strong-willed female who doesn't think much of him. Soki can't believe her luck.

Determined to make her way in the world by using her brain she knows she doesn't have the looks to attract men like the man who kissed her back to the land of the living. Passion and friendship are two things Poseidon never thought to encounter in a female, let alone a mortal human woman. A taste of Soki's love is not enough and the God of the Seas will do all he can to convince her he's worth dying for.

Tasked with guarding the sea god Poseidon's vault, Fiona, intense and sexy warrior siren of the deep, was not about to let it be known someone had stolen treasure under her watch. But when she traveled to the human realm to reclaim what belongs to her god the last thing she expected to find was searing passion in the arms of a man. Trace wears guilt like a second skin.

Ever since his fellow Navy Seal buddy died he's been pushing his limits in the sea. Finding a cave filled with ancient artifacts was great but having a sexy temptress storm into his life is a wet dream come true. One he's not about to let free from his bed anytime soon, especially since his idea of a punishment means fun for all. The sea laws are harsh and in the end Fiona's one night of hot, sweaty sex with a human could be too much for them both.
