(Note: Please select the paperback option. The Kindle version will just piss you off.) This is a basic bitch planner. I repeat, a basic bitch planner. It doesn't care about your dreams or your grandma's birthday. It also doesn't care if you cheat on it with other planners, or dump it for something prettier. It knows it's just a glorified notebook being used until the next best thing. It doesn't care about your pretty stickers or your special fountain pen in that shade of pink you think is special. It just doesn't care. And now that I've sold you, let me tell you about my basic bitch planner. 2018-2019 are at the front. It comes in 3 different sizes (largish, mediumish, and passportish size), weekly and daily, undated (if you are difficult and don't want to start the first week of Jan, or just can't make up your damn mind), and dated. Colorblocked and gridded pages are the focus. Each page is numbered (if you need an index) and has a little black square on the top right of each page to tick or color once you're done with this page. That's it. Interior designed in a sedate gray because you're bringing the chaos, not me. So, what does this planner provide beside its basic-ness? Lots if you need it. If you're into the diy planner scene, joined the Bullet Journal cult, follow the GTD assembly, then this could work for you. Trees were chopped down, but no cows were killed. You can knock yourself out with washi tape and stickers. Or not. No frills, here. Instagram and Pinterest can show you how to add your own frills. You do you. I'm not here to inspire you. This planner works for you, not the other way around. You just have to choose a cover. Hit me up on Instagram for cover requests. <https://www.instagram.com/inkslayed/>

Do you like planners? Do you have a collection of them? Are any of them perfect? Are you constantly looking for the next best? The one that will finally put your life in order. I love planners. I've amassed hundreds over the years. Some worked better than others, and some still sit empty and too pretty for me to deface with my horrible handwriting. I've also come to terms that a book isn't going to get my life in order, but maybe it can look a little less chaotic. (The lies we tell ourselves.) I think I've reached a point in my life where I just want a basic bitch planner. I'm trying a minimalist approach. You can plan every little detail if you'd like, or just jot down the things you don't want to forget. I decided to start from scratch for the things I needed. I needed plenty of space for random thoughts, ideas, song lyrics to Google later, recipes, phone numbers, restaurants, who was that actor who played in Perfect Strangers, is that Venus right by the moon, and what time does Starbucks close? Sure, I could check my phone, but there's only 5% left on my battery, so I need to save it. I need plenty of grid space. And sometimes I don't need an answer right away, but want to keep it close. But I also needed just a tiny bit of structure. A place for organized tasks, appointments, deadlines, or whatever else I wanted. It differs from week to week for me. I left it without labels for you to define as you see fit. You could just as easily use the space for doodling, baby names, weekly menus, project planning, etc., etc. There's also a nifty black square on every right page for you to tick/fill in when a page isn't needed anymore. You can use them as Bullet Journals, as I do when my brain lets me, or if you follow the church of GTD. You do you. I'm not here to inspire you. This planner works for you, not the other way around. The planners come in 7"x10", daily and weekly, undated (2 year calendar in front only) and dated. Interior designed in sedate grays because it calms me. Covers designed to amuse me. Interiors include: For weekly: Two pages of color blocks at front and back, four pages interspersed. Two-year, two-page calendar spread. Thirteen, two-page, one-month spread. Fifty-three, two-page weekly spreads, left side color block, right side gridded. Sixty extra gridded sheets. Numbered pages if an index is required. For daily: Two pages of color blocks at front and back. Two-year, two-page calendar spread. Thirteen, two-page, one-month spread. Three-hundred, sixty-five, one-page half color block, half gridded pages. Ten extra gridded sheets. Numbered pages if an index is required.
