

Destined For Equality

"Destined for Salvation" is a supplementary summary for 1Thess 5:9-10 that compliments the author's discussion in "The Outer Darkness." Five major models for interpreting 1Thess 5:9-10 are evaluated, and a mediation is taken that perceives the passage as promising an unconditional rapture (and thus unconditional security) to all believers in Christ, even to those who are morally asleep. However, an incentive for being morally awake is provided by making salvation (in the form of millennial and eternal ridership) contingent upon being morally alert in view of the attendant Bema judgment that is to ensue. Harmonization between these perspective and some key passages is then demonstrated in connection with the "blessed hope" of Tit 2:13 and being saved by Christ's death and life in connection with the approaching tribulational wrath of Rom 5:9-10.

2. Paragraph 2 line 2 – Insert 'of' between the words 'people' and 'Mbube' 3.

Paragraph 4 lines 6 & 7 – Replace the name with 'Rev. Fr. Prof. Jake Omang Otonko' To whom it may concern, my name is Stanley Granson and I have been a Christian all of my life, I was baptize at a early age of five years old. I was raised in a Christian family and attended church on a regular basis. My dad Joe Dell Granson Sr. who has gone on to be with the Lord was my spiritual leader in my life. I have love for the bible and sharing Gods word with his people. Although shy by nature I found a new boldness in ministering to the loss. God has brought me from a mighty long way. I believe that the word of God should be taught to all generations because God is trying to reach everyone through different methods and ways. It is very important to understand that we are not perfect, but the Lord is perfecting us. However, if and when we make a mistake in life, we have the privilege of going before God the Father to confess our faults to him. I have trusted God to provide for my every need. I know this can only happen through faith. The bible says all have sin and come short of the glory of God. But He is faithful to forgive us from all wrong doing if only we confess and repent of our sins. If you know Jesus you can and will be saved. Jesus declares the only way to the father is through Him. Without Jesus there is no salvation. I believe our goal in life should be to reach and teach the word of God so our families can stay strong and our marriages or strengthen. I thank God for a Godly father and mother who taught me to stay on the right path. We have to teach this generation the same thing if we are going to conquer saving the lost. I am excited about the opportunity to attend Grace Theological. I believe the best is yet to come.

Destined for Equality The Inevitable Rise of Women's Status Harvard University Press

We are witnessing today women being elected as presidents or prime ministers, women that have been awarded Nobel prizes, that perform exceedingly in sports winning Olympic medals, women that excel in art, that have defended the rights of the oppressed, that have gone to space, that are active in politics and are CEOs of businesses and corporations. Women today are found in the most difficult jobs such as urgency paramedics, workers in heavy machinery factories, and in the construction of skyscrapers; they are in research laboratories or as members of toxic materials management teams. It was not the scenario 175 years ago. On the contrary, women since the cave times until the dawn of the twentieth century have been oppressed by the fact they were born as women. Social, cultural, economic, and political roles defined by men in those times obliged women to stay at home raising children, without being allowed to aspire to play a significant role in the development of the economic, civic and religious life of their communities. The explosion of women participating today in the social, political, and economic arenas of the advanced countries might give the impression that this was their situation in the past. Not true. The modern movement of women engaged in a tenacious struggle for equality with men has given them unquestionable victories, and a powerful consciousness of their role in the unfolding of a new and powerful history. Their victories, in many occasions, were acquired in open confrontation with men who did not want to accept they had inherent rights. It has been a slow process that has demanded extraordinary effort from women all over the world. We are just beginning to witness the potential that women have, and we can foresee the brilliant future they are going to create for humanity. Appreciating, defending, and promoting this evolution is an invitation to participate with them in this extraordinary journey destined to be a magnificent stage of evolution for the benefit of all of humanity.

Music is marked as an appropriate leisure activity, but one that should be discarded upon entering adulthood. How then do many men and women aspire to forge careers in music upon entering adulthood? In Destined for Greatness, sociologist Michael Ramirez examines the lives of forty-eight independent rock musicians who seek out such non-normative choices in a college town renowned for its music scene. He explores the rich life course trajectories of women and men to explore the extent to which pathways are structured to allow some, but not all, individuals to fashion careers in music worlds. Ramirez suggests a more nuanced understanding of factors that enable the pursuit of musical livelihoods well into adulthood.

Destined to Die takes place in occupied East Jerusalem, the West Bank, and Lebanon (1979). Nabeel, a student at Bir Zeit University, is arrested on unsubstantiated charges of terrorism. Interrogated and tortured by Major Rosenberg, he is held in solitary confinement for weeks. Released, he decides to go to Lebanon to join the PLO. His devoted girl-friend, Samira-a fellow student-insists on going with him. Earlier, Dr. Johnson-the American director of an archaeological institution where Nabeel's father works-attempts to get Nabeel released from prison. Troops storm his offices, everybody is searched, and he is investigated by Major Rosenberg. Accusations and coercions eventually lead to Johnson's downfall from office. The scene shifts to war-torn Beirut and, later, to the "security belt" zone in South Lebanon. Nabeel spearheads an attack on an Israeli post and is killed just as he captures it. To avenge his death, Samira undertakes a suicide mission which destroys a landed Israeli commando unit in Beirut about to assassinate two top PLO officials. Through its Palestinian, Israeli, and American characters, Destined to Die explores, or touches on, themes such as personal and national identity, racism, terrorism, detention without trial, victimization, loyalty, and self-sacrifice.

From the creators of America's favorite presidential address, WeeklyRadioAddress.com (as seen on TheOnion.com), comes this unauthorized autobiography of George W. Bush.

The authors skilfully recount the inspiring stories of several 'ordinary' but remarkable persons who have been called – and who faithfully obeyed the calling! – to make a significant difference by being a blessing to many people, transforming communities and erecting hopeful signs of the coming of God's kingdom. What they achieved is indeed remarkable, but they all are quick to testify: it is not us, but rather the hand of God using us as building bricks. The book is well written, captivating and intended for a broad readership. This is indeed a seminal book, making a great contribution to the kingdom of God in South Africa, Africa and further abroad.
