Excerpt from Easy Steps in Chinese Studies: A Series of Lessons, Vocabularies, Expressions, Etc; Etc The plan I have adopted is so to familiarise the scholars with the characters in the earlier lessons that these may be recognized at sight, but not necessarily written from memory. Tone-marks are used, but at first no notice whatever is taken of them, the boys being cautioned to depend upon their ear entirely, and give no heed whatever to the transliteration, except as a refresher to the memory. Of the success of this plan there is no doubt.
Dr. Edkins, who did us the honour to examine the classes in December 1901, writes thus in his report The pupils whom I heard read have the tone and Pekin accent. Though all are foreign boys they seem to catch the tone from the teacher, a Pekinese belonging to the Imperial city, much more readily than they would do if they had begun to learn at, say, 25 years of age. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes

How much time does a learner need to spend learning to write Chinese characters? Do you need to write every Chinese character that you learn? How many times do you need to write a Chinese character? Is it effective to write a full page of the same Chinese character repeatedly? How to remember all the strokes in a Chinese character easily? Your child will be able to Identify the PARTS (strokes and Chinese Alphabets) in Chinese characters. This will help to build a strong foundation for higher learning Learn in MULTIPLE WAYS - tracing, colouring, writing, visualising (or choose one way that suits your child) Understand the MEANING of the Chinese characters through PICTURES. pages of the same Chinese characters. Writing can be fun if done moderately and in varied ways. Your child will be engaged because we Limit writing exercises to about 10 repetitions per character Create varied activities (e.g. varying word sizes, alternating between similar-looking characters, creating tracing and colouring options) Present strokes in cartoons with easy-to-remember names Provide more than one way to learn - trace, colour, write, visualise If your purpose is to develop the ability to RECALL the Chinese characters you learn, writing the characters is only one way to register them in your mind. More importantly, you need to be able to VISUALISE it, that is able to see the components in the character, how they are combined and the order they are combined. In our books, we teach Chinese characters broken down into PARTS (not strokes only). A part can be a stroke or a Chinese Alphabet. A Chinese Alphabet is a repetitive component that is made up of 2 to 6 strokes. Learning Chinese Alphabets before learning Chinese characters helps to reduce memory work - don't remember a character by disintegrated strokes, remember it by PARTS (strokes and alphabets) and do it systematically. VISUALISE CHINESE CHARACTERS Look out for the "LEARN CHINESE VISUALLY (1 to 10)" series of books to help children visualise strokes, Chinese Alphabets and characters in COLOURS! LEARN CHINESE

We learn Chinese vocabulary more easily in the context of a story. Learning Chinese The Easy Way Level 1 (Simplified Characters) contains 3 stories: Two Men and The Bear (Readers should read this story first) The Wind and The Sun The Fox and The Goat This book is about the story, The Fox and The Goat. After studying through this book, you will be able to remember and read the famous fable, The Fox & The Goat, in Chinese to your children, students, friends, and colleagues! They all will be amazed! Each Chinese character, after going through several thousand years of evolution, is like an abstract piece of art. To remember a Chinese Character, it's essential to understand the artists' reasoning behind it. When a Chinese character is meaningfully explained and understood, it is retained much longer. The books in the series present and explain pieces of each character through illustrations, reasons behind it, stories, or the easiest way to remember the writing/sound, to help readers understand and remember the Chinese characters easily. Learning Chinese The Easy Way (Simplified Characters) Level 1 and Level 2 books are a huge help for beginners or experienced learners to learn and remember Chinese characters.
