Some people didn't believe in Spaceships; until they saw a Spaceship. Some people didn't believe in Time-travel; until they travelled in time. Some people were prepared to believe in anything - even parallel universes! Some people believed in something they couldn't even see. Some people didn't believe in anything. Fortunately, The Gods believed in them all... Watch this Space. Watch this Time. Watch yourself...

How Do You Eat an Elephant? is a playful yet straightforward "how to" book of 30 principles every good manager must incorporate into his business.

The Go Fish Project, unlike other devotional guides or Bible studies that you have experienced, doesn't burden you with lofty theological principles or sixteen steps to a better you. It spells out in black and white the straight and narrow path to discovering God's will for His church and His followers. The book builds deeper relationships between you and God, you and fellow believers, and ultimately, you and a world that desperately needs our help. Along the way, you will also gain insight about yourself through relatable stories that we all experience every day.

Caught in the Middle was born from the thought of how we are caught between society, the day to day challenges, temptations and doing what is right according to our Maker, God. These are my observations of how we have forgotten that with a little faith and a lot of love, we can overcome some of life's most devastating pains.

How do you organize your life, setting a schedule and complete tasks, dominate deadlines and workloads? Just like eating an elephant. One bite at a time. About your notebook : This is a very simple, handy elephant journal. It can also be used as a writing book, diary, notebook, notepad, writing ideas, for planning and jotting lists. escape her pimp, despite what the tarot cards tell her. A drifter hunts down the man who hung her out to dry with a cartel boss. A sicario has a crisis of faith when an old legend stalks him. From the streets of Baltimore to the comunas of Medellín, the Mexican Sierras to Texas border towns, Wear Your Home Like a Scar shows that no matter how deep you cut, you'll never truly leave your home behind. Praise for the Stories by Nik Korpon: "Nik Korpon's stories read like Sonny Chiba and Don Winslow somehow made a literary baby, in that they will kick your ass, then kick you in the head, and then in the heart." —Todd Robinson, author of The Hard Bounce and Rough Trade "There's an electric charge to Nik Korpon's stories. They crackle and pop and leave a mark. This is an entire book full of them. Why haven't you bought it yet?" —Rob Hart, author of The Warehouse "Nik Korpon writes the kind of stories that'll take your heart out with a post hole digger and stitch it back in with barbed wire. Read them all." —Benjamin Whitmer, author of Cry Father and Évasion "In his stellar new collection, Nik Korpon effortlessly hacks up chunks of this dark world and serves them up still sizzling, writing with a directness and authenticity that marks him as the real thing." —Jordan Harper, Edgar Award-winning author of She Rides Shotgun and Love and Other Wounds

Alice, a dedicated doctor and mother of two girls, bravely tells the story of her marriage to a man hiding a terrible secret - one that he has drawn their 4-year-old daughter, Grace, into. A compelling first person account of a mother whose marriage is shattered

Fueled by the release of a deadly virus the dark children of the ancient fallen angels launch their assault upon mankind to subjugate and rule humanity. As dark forces and infected humans assault the cities of the earth a small group of humans must find each other and band together to discover the true nature of the virus and the forces behind it before all of humanity is dragged into darkness.

Trial and error is always a difficult way to learn. In his fifty lessons about life, Kermit writes to his two children about what he has learned during his time on this planet. These insightful, practical and useful messages can be used by anyone who seeks to avoid life's pitfalls; while at the same time learning how you can become a better parent, friend and teacher for your own children.

Success and the personal freedom that it brings have nothing to do with good luck. It involves taking control of and using the power you already have in order to get much of what you want from life; and doing this in a manner that doesn't hurt others. Successful people have developed special skills in dealing with the people they work for as well as with their coworkers and others they encounter in their everyday lives. And now you can learn these skills too. Dr. Jack Rosenfeld's new book, Powertake, is a condensed, easy-to-follow course that explains how to tap your incredible personal power. You

How do women – mothers, daughters, aunts, nieces and grandmothers -- make sense of judgment to a lifetime behind bars? In Women Doing Life, Lora Bex Lempert examines the carceral experiences of women serving life sentences, presenting a typology of the ways that life-sentenced women grow and self-actualize, resist prison definitions, reflect on and “own” their criminal acts, and ultimately create meaningful lives behind prison walls. Looking beyond the explosive headlines that often characterize these women as monsters, Lempert offers rare insight into this vulnerable, little studied population. Her gendered analysis considers the ways that women “do crime” differently than men and how they have qualitatively different experiences of imprisonment than their male counterparts. Through in-depth interviews with 72 women serving life sentences in Michigan, Lempert brings these women back into the public arena, drawing analytical attention to their complicated, contradictory, and yet compelling lives. Women Doing Life focuses particular attention on how women cope with their no-exit sentences and explores how their lifetime imprisonment catalyzes personal reflection, accountability for choices, reconstruction of their stigmatized identities, and rebuilding of social bonds. Most of the women in her study reported childhoods in environments where violence and disorder were common; many were victims before they were offenders. Lempert vividly illustrates how, behind the prison gates, life-serving women can develop lives that are meaningful, capable and, oftentimes, even ordinary. Women Doing Life shows both the scope and the limit of human possibility available to women incarcerated for life. Unlike most books on time management, successful author Gary Kroehnert's latest book is fun, oversized, heavily-illustrated, and filled with worksheets. With its lighthearted but very practical approach, How Do You Eat An Elephant will improve your time-management skills, both professionally and personally. This book is based on my life and things that happened as I grew up to become the woman I am today. My eldest sister and I are very close. Yet it is unfortunate that we are not as close to our youngest sister, Iris. Sisters, I love you very much. I know that we are all survivors and there are other sisters waiting on our story to help them survive. What mommy needed to know is your daughters miss, love, and need you very much. We are survivors . . . Yes, your ancestors, Oletha.

What future mommies must know is your legacy goes on without you ensure to make sure you water your plants (your children) with love and care.

Nobody can escape change, whether it's the loss of a job, a home, money, or even a loved one. Instead of falling into fear or avoidance, find your way back to happiness and wholeness by embracing the opportunity for growth and renewal in every transition. Life in Transition shows you how to uncover the gifts that emerge from each loss and reinvent yourself into a stronger person than you were before. Through personal stories, practical exercises, meditations, and more, Servet Hasan teaches you how to gain wisdom from your pain with intuition as your guide. Even the most difficult and painful loss becomes a chance to evolve spiritually and receive the miraculous gift of self-realization. Praise:

communication to nibble at this problem of transformation bit by bit. As the old saying goes, the way you eat the elephant is one bite at a time. Richard and Kevin bring us to the table with knife and fork and other tools, and show us a way to devour this elephant in the room.” Grady Booch, IBM Fellow, co-creator of UML “Most organizations in the 21st century have an existing, complex systems landscape. It is time that the IT industry face up to the reality of the situation and the need for new development methods and tools that address it. This book describes a new approach to the development of future systems: a structured approach that recognizes the challenges of ‘Brownfield’ development, is based on engineering principles, and is supported by appropriate tooling.” Chris Winter, CEng CITP FBCS FIET, IBM Fellow, Member of the IBM Academy of Technology Most conventional approaches to IT development assume that you’re building entirely new systems. Today, “Greenfield” development is a rarity. Nearly every project exists in the context of existing, complex system landscapes--often poorly documented and poorly understood. Now, two of IBM’s most experienced senior architects offer a new approach that is fully optimized for the unique realities of “Brownfield” development. Richard Hopkins and Kevin Jenkins explain why accumulated business and IT complexity is the root cause of large-scale project failure and show how to overcome that complexity “one bite of the elephant at a time.” You’ll learn how to manage every phase of the Brownfield project, leveraging breakthrough collaboration, communication, and visualization tools--including Web 2.0, semantic

'There's a growing awareness that for the good of their health, children need to be out and about more, with their friends, exploring the outdoor world in their own way.' - Nicola Butler, Director of the Free Play Network. It is widely acknowledged that children today do not get outdoors often enough and there are serious concerns about children's activity levels and rising associated behavioural, mental and health problems. With such structured and technology-driven lives, it is easy for young children to stay indoors, play on computers and not socialise with other children in a healthy and active way. This book not only supports 'playing out' as an integral part of children's natural growth and development, but also provides early years workers with a full programme of outdoor physical activities to promote physical, social and behavioural skills. This book is a guidebook to setting up an outdoor physical activity programme in any early years setting. The book focuses on how getting outdoors and taking part in physical activities will provide children with positive fun experiences to enhance their general learning and development. The programme can be adapted to suit any timescale - from a whole term to one or two days. Key features include showing practitioners: how to make the most of their outdoor area for all children step by step explanations to the outdoor activities how to engage participants (including parents) how to set up and plan activities ideas for group and individual assessment how to carry out risk assessments how an outdoors programme can change children's lives for the better.

Core values and principles can sustain and inspire you during challenging times, and the more you practice and embody them, the more likely you are to become a wiser leader. Paul D. Houston, executive director emeritus of the American Association of School Administrators, and Stephen L. Sokolow, a founding partner and executive director of the Center for Empowered Leadership, offer eighteen core leadership values and principles to help you do the right things, in the right way, at the right time, and for the right reasons. The core values you'll learn include how to focus on the positive; empower and uplift others; operate from a base of compassion; and recognize the seeds of wisdom. Wise leaders view all people as having natural gifts, and it's important to help them grow. What's more, supporting and valuing people encourages them to do more for you and for the organization. Enhance organizational productivity, creativity, and capacity by learning and applying eighteen core values of The Wise Leader.

It is the worst of times. Teddy and Pip's perfect lives have been turned upside down. Amelia has been gone for too many days, there are no postcards and Wally did not come. Mom Jane does it all wrong. She took away the TV remote, gave them tap water and called them monsters. Worst of all, she put them in a bucket. Help is needed. But how can they get it without revealing their big secret? You see, Teddy and Pip... can talk. Nine-year-old Molly Jane Fisher comes to the rescue. Not only does she love guinea pigs, she can keep a secret. She is also a detective and will not close the case until everything is sorted out. A Tale of Two Guinea Pigs is about love, loyalty, a puzzling mystery and smart detective work. Most of all, it is about two very special guinea pigs who will make you laugh and capture your heart. LISA MADDOCK lives in Shakopee, Minnesota with her husband Bill, daughter Allison and two pampered guinea pigs-Maggie and Peanut. (Teddy and Pip are not finished with her; they have more to say, so more stories are coming.)

When it comes to your life, do you let the urgent take precedence over the important? Do the days slip by with lots of activity, and yet the big things those dreams you've carried for years lie dormant, slipping further and further from reach? Are you ready to be honest with yourself? Are you ready to stake a claim and make a commitment? Are you ready to manifest your thoughts as concrete action in the world? Whatever it is that your heart desires, are you ready to get started, to close the gap between wishful thinking and deliberate action? It's not the lack of time that's stopping you, it's the lack of purpose and structure. In ACT, the second book in the
