In this bold study of modern ethno-regional nationalism, the author examines the divergent paths taken by the nationalist insurgencies in Tigray and Eritrea. The author argues that Tigrayans, south of the Mereb River, and Kebessa (highlands) Eritreans, north of the Mereb, are ethnically one people, tied by common history, political economy, myth, language and religion. Both fought against a common enemy, an oppressive Amhara ethnic state, for a period of seventeen and thirty years, respectively. In the process of the armed struggle, however, each evolved separate political identities and, after jointly marching to military victory in 1991, they followed separate political paths - Eritreans created the newest state in Africa and Tigrayans remained within the Ethiopian body politic.

educational scene worldwide. This volume was the first major international review of such developments and it explores the impact of assessment on all areas of education, from teaching skills to policy-making. The contributors take a global perspective to spotlight the common problems facing teachers and students, policy-makers and politicians through the world as they seek to reconcile issues of equity and national development, educational imperatives and finite state resources. The contributions discuss the changing role of assessment and public examinations, and consider such specific issues as the development of a market economy in educational provision, the difficulties of measuring standards in international studies, and accreditation of absolute rather than relative competencies.

Building an effective, inclusive, and accountable public administration has become a major point of attention for policymakers and academics in Ethiopia who want to realise sustainable development. This first handbook on Ethiopian Public Administration is written by Ethiopian academics and practitioner-academics and builds on PhD studies and conference papers, including studies presented at the meetings of the Ethiopian Public Administration Association (EPAA), established in 2016. Public Administration in Ethiopia presents a wide range of timely issues in four thematic parts: Governance, Human Resources, Performance and Quality, and Governance of Policies. Each of the individual chapters in this volume contributes in a different way to the overarching research questions: How can we describe and explain the contexts, the processes and the results of the post-1990 politico-administrative reforms in Ethiopia? And what are the implications for sustainable development? This book is essential for students, practitioners, and theorists interested in public administration, public policy, and sustainable development. Moreover, the volume is a valuable stepping stone for PA teaching and PA research in Ethiopia.

Master's Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject Economics - Statistics and Methods, grade: 24, Haramaya University, language: English, abstract: Application of GARCH type model is a key for modeling and forecasting volatility for high frequency data such as daily commodity price. Following the same framework, the objective of the present study is to apply the multiplicative GARCH-MIDAS model for daily exported coffee price as proxy of daily total coffee price of Ethiopia over the period of 1-1-2008 to 7-17-2018 with the purpose of fitting and forecasting coffee price returns volatility. The GARCH-MIDAS model decomposes the conditional variance as short-term component of GARCH (1,1) process, and long-term component, with monthly frequencies of macroeconomic variables. In this study exchange rate (nominal exchange rate), inflation rate (general inflation), interest rate (lending interest rate), fuel oil price (price of imported petroleum and petroleum production), total consumption and money supply (broad money) macroeconomic variables were employed through MIDAS specification using beta-weighting scheme to analyze impact of the variables on the long-term volatility component. For fitted ARMA (1,1) of coffee price return ARCH effect test on the residual from the mean model revealed the existence of time varying conditional variance for the selected mean model. A conditional variance model GARCH (1,1) was selected and used to model the conditional variance of coffee price return with Quasi Maximum Likelihood along with Bayesian estimation methods and both estimation procedures indicated the persistence of conditional variance observed even for small sample under Bayesian estimation framework. Asymmetry test show the insignificance of the asymmetric term, while Lundbergh and Terasvirta Lagrange Multiplier and the Li-Mak portmanteau test for the residual of GARCH model show the existence of time varying unconditional variance and made call for GARCH-MIDAS model. From the result of estimated GARCH-MIDAS model exchange rate and inflation rate were found to be the best drivers of coffee price volatility in Ethiopia and used for in and out of sample forecast. Finally, the Mean Absolute Error Root Mean Square Error and Diebold Mariano test were used for evaluating and comparing the forecasting ability of GARCH-MIDAS component model against standard GARCH (1,1) model which indicated that, including exchange rate and inflation rate make efficient forecasting of coffee price volatility in Ethiopia. This comprehensive text applies research to practice, providing both ESL and mainstream teachers with the background and expertise necessary to plan and implement reading programs that match the particular needs and abilities of their students from kindergarten through adult levels.

This authoritative, state-of-the-art reference work builds on its first edition to provide a cutting-edge systematic review of the relationship between race/ethnicity and educational inequality. Studying 25 different national contexts drawn from every inhabited continent on earth and building upon material from the earlier edition, the work analyses educational policies, practices and research on minority students, immigrants and refugees. The editors and contributors explore principal research traditions from countries as diverse as Argentina, China, Norway and South Africa, examining the factors promoting social cohesion as well as considerations regarding the use of international test score data. Seamlessly integrating findings of national reviews, the editors and contributors analyse how national contexts of race/ethnic relations shape the character and content of educational inequalities, and deftly map out new directions for future research in the area. Global in its perspective and definitive in content, this one-stop volume will be an indispensable reference resource for a wide range of academics, students and researchers in the fields of education, sociology, race and ethnicity studies and social policy.
