Here's the ultimate resource for today's super grannies, with super-powers to captivate their grandkids! It's got 75 cool and creative projects, all grouped by age from infancy to adolescence (2-18). And there's something for even the most computer-savvy kid, along with more traditional forms of entertainment, including treasure hunts, dress-up, and crafts. Many of the ideas encourage reading and writing--but always with fun in mind, such as creating a blog or a family cookbook. Handy icons help Grandma pinpoint those projects that suit her pocketbook, energy level, and interests; there's even one for long-distance grandmothers seeking to connect with their grandkids. A copious listing at the end suggests informative Web sites to check out.

This chronologically organized text, designed for the mainstream Human Development course, continues to showcase the author team's trademark of clear, accessible writing. The Eighth edition introduces a new pedagogical learning system, making the text even more valuable and easy-to-use for students. Applauded by adopters for its combination of research coverage with applications and real-life examples, the text continues to include superior coverage of cross-cultural topics and issues facing the disabled, in addition to exceptionally good coverage of health issues and applications.
