Art Course Logbook Record Book for Logging Information from Art Courses; Traditional and Digital Art. Independently Published

Do you love to learn? And are you constantly buying online courses? Do you ever forget what you have already purchased or what your login information is for each course? Well, this handy and convenient 6 x 9 inch password keeper log book will keep you organized from now on by storing your classroom URL links, user name and password information, order number, as well as the date of purchase, which email you used to purchase the course, how long the money back guarantee lasts (if applicable), and what bonuses were included with the purchase (if any). The fill-in-the-blank tracker, table of contents, and numbered pages make referencing the information for a particular course quick and easy. Product Specifications: Size - 6x9 inches Custom designed pages with additional space to take notes 90 log book pages Table of Contents for easy look up Be sure to check out all books by Logbook Tracker Publishing by clicking on the author's name just below the title of this logbook at the top of the page.

This is the logbook that I've wanted myself for a long time! It's for tutorials, specifically art tutorials whether that is traditional or digital art. I watch and read a LOT of art tutorials both on and offline and I'm forever forgetting where I learnt or wanted to learn a particular technique. Was it during a course, a YouTube tutorial or maybe even in a good old book?! This logbook is designed specifically to enable you to capture all this information and store it in one accessible place. The book is 8.5 x 11 inches with wide ruled pages. It has plenty of space for more than 50 tutorials over a 2 page spread. One page includes space to record: Name of tutorial Tutor Location (website url, computer folder, or book title) Expiry date (if the tutorial is time limited or subscription based) Software (for digital art) Then comes a generous space to list materials which could range from substrates and paints to digital brushes or hardware. The rest of the first page and the facing page are for the process, with easy on the eye, wide ruled lines. The pages are numbered and there is an option to fill in the 'continued on page...' and jump to the pages left blank (ruled) for this purpose at the back of the book. 4 pages at the front of the book are index pages to enable you to quickly locate the information in a completed book. I hope this helps us to become more organised and make the most of our wonderful (and sometimes expensive) art courses.
