"AAA uses The Chicago Manual of Style (15th edition, 2003) and Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (11th edition, 2006), MLA style manual (2nd edition, 1998), and United States Government Printing Office. This guide is an outline of style rules basic to AAA style. Where no rule is present on this list, follow Chicago. For spelling, follow Webster's first spelling if there is a choice and use American not British spellings. This guide does not apply to newsletters, which frequently deviate from these guidelines in the interest of space and tend to follow many Associated Press style rules."--P. 1.

Reflecting the dramatic changes shaped by rapidly developing technologies over the past six years, this new fourth edition of Reference and Information Services takes the introduction to reference sources and services significantly beyond the content of the first three editions. In Part I, Concepts and Processes, chapters have been revised and updated to reflect new ideas and methods in the provision of reference service in an era when many users have access to the Web. In Part II, Information Sources and Their Use, discussion of each source type has been updated to encompass key resources in print and on the Web, where an increasing number of freely available sources join those purchased or licensed by libraries. A number of new authors are contributors to this new edition, bringing to their chapters their experience as teachers of reference and as practitioners in different types of libraries. Discussions of services in Part I integrate digital reference as appropriate to each topic, such as how to conduct a reference interview online using instant messaging. Boxes interspersed in the text are used to present scenarios for discussion, to highlight key concepts, or to present excerpts from important documents.

Discussions of sources in Part II place more emphasis on designing effective search strategies using both print and digital resources. The chapter on selection and evaluation of sources addresses the changing nature of reference collections and how to evaluate new types of sources. Each chapter concludes with an updated list of additional readings to guide further study. A new companion website will provide links to Web-accessible readings and resources as well as additional scenarios for discussion and example search strategies to supplement those presented in the text.

James's letter is trying to link up the clothing metaphor by code, innuendo against Saul/Paul who killed Stephen/James. Chapter 2 of the letter of James writes twice about Favoritism with clothes and links it committing murder. In Chapter 3 it rebukes the boastful horse tongue of Paul and states at the end: "But the wisdom that comes from heaven is first of all pure; then peace-loving, considerate, submissive, full of mercy and good fruit, impartial and sincere. Peacemakers who sow in peace raise a harvest of righteousness." Chapter 5 of James Letter is linked with chapter 3: Now listen you rich people, weep and wail because of the misery that is coming upon you. Your wealth has rotted, and moths have eaten your clothes. Your gold and silver are corroded. Their corrosion will testify against you and eat your flesh like fire...The cries of the harvesters have reached the ears of the lord almighty...You (Paul) have condemned and murdered innocent men (Stephen/James) who were not opposing you. At the end of James letter it equates a 3 and half year famine caused by drought to his time and Elijah's time. The Letter of Jude follows James theme: "Be merciful to those who doubt, snatch others from the fire and save them; to others show mercy, mixed with fear-hating even the clothing (Paul) stained by corrupted flesh." The only other time that clothing/Favoritism/approval and the issues of food/famine with a murder come in all together is in the book of Acts of Paul killing Stephen/James. In chapter 6 and 7 of Acts talks of Stephen/James being chosen to help distribute food to the poor. Stephen talks about ancient times when a famine struck all of Egypt. In chapter 7/8 of acts it has Saul/Paul giving "approval" to Stephen's death. Stephen said: "I see heaven open and the Son of man standing at the right hand." At this they covered their ears and yelled at the top of their voices, they all rushed him, dragged him out of the city and began to stone him. Meanwhile, the witnesses laid their clothes at the feet of a young man named Saul/Paul. While they were stoning him, Stephen prayed, Lord Jesus receive my spirit. Then he fell on his knees and cried out, Lord do not hold this sin against them. When he had said this, he fell asleep. Chapter 8 "And Saul/Paul was there, giving approval/Favoring to his death." This is all similar language to the cries of the Harvesters reaching the ears of the lord about those who murdered innocent men in the letter of James might be a possible link. The theme of the assassins clothes with Paul's approval/favor is another link too. I was blessed to discover that the so-called church father of history {Eusebius,264-340ad}, said that James was pushed down from the Temple and was "being beaten with a fuller's or Laundryman'Club." This explains the analogy of death/clothes being used together in the Letter of James.
