Operations management deals with the design and management of products, processes, services and supply chains. Operations management is the management of resources to create goods and services that can be sold to make a profit. These resources include employees, facilities, inventory and time. It is important because it allows a company to make profits if used properly. Operations management is important to an organization's managers for at least two reasons. First, it can improve productivity, which improves an organization's financial health. Second, it can help organizations meet customers' competitive priorities. An operations manager plays a vital role in ensuring that the day-to-day operations of a business run smoothly. They are responsible for ensuring that effective methods are put into place so that the company of employment runs to its maximum productivity. Due to the broad scope of operations management, it is important to note that operations managers are not specialists but generalists who can overview the whole situation and take decisions accordingly.

The purpose of this book is to provide cutting-edge information on service management such as the role services play in an economy, service strategy, ethical issues in services and service supply chains. It also covers basic topics of operations management including linear and goal programming, project management, inventory management and forecasting. This book takes a multidisciplinary approach to services and operational management challenges; it draws upon the theory and practice in many fields of study such as economics, management science, statistics, psychology, sociology, ethics and technology, to name a few. It contains chapters most textbooks do not include, such as ethics, management of public and non-profit service organizations, productivity and measurement of performance, routing and scheduling of service vehicles. An Instructor's Solutions Manual is available upon request for all instructors who adopt this book as a course text. Please send your request to sales@wspc.com.
