"While riding the subway home from the pool with his abuela one day, Julián notices three women spectacularly dressed up. Their hair billows in brilliant hues, their dresses end in fishtails, and their joy fills the train car. When Julián gets home, daydreaming of the magic he's seen, all he can think about is dressing up just like the ladies in his own fabulous mermaid costume: a butter-yellow curtain for his tail, the fronds of a potted fern for his headdress. But what will Abuela think about the mess he makes -- and even more importantly, what will she think about how Julián sees himself?"--

Politics is about everyone. Even if you are not a politician, you cannot even vote or participate in elections. From what time do you have to arrive at school every day? What is a crime? What can we do to avoid war? Which countries should we cooperate with... These are all politics! We need to think about and discuss politics frequently in order to know more about the world, for example: How was the United States born? How did ancient Rome and China manage society? Why are elections and voting important? When did capitalism and communism appear?

Pete the pirate and his crew find themselves in many sticky situations in their search for treasure. They lurch from one disaster to another but always have a way of surviving whatever comes their way. Pete can be a cranky funny old captain of the pirate ship, shouting orders and stomping around on his wooden leg, causing the crew to collapse with laughter at his antics. Their adventures take them to many parts of the world and often into danger.

Specially written for grown-ups to read to children at bedtime, this title has one story divided into five chapters, one for each day from Monday to Friday.
