JC Maxwell boarding school in Surrey UK; that is where Diana 15 years old have been sent, along with five of her friends. She is charged with a mission by her mother; to find the reason for some unexplained disturbance. What she did not expect to find was a series of murders and school staffs with strange behaviours. Subsequently, the parties responsible for the murders are intrigued and disturbed by those new students who not only have started to meddle in their affairs but also appear to be more than meets the eye. While the two groups are clashing, the only thing everybody agrees on is that no one is in Surrey for the reason they claim to be.

This volume focuses on very young children--(aged 0-8) rights in a digital world. It gathers current research from around the globe that focuses on young childrens' rights as agental citizens to the provision of and participation in digital devices and content--as well as their right to protection from harm. The UN Digital Rights Framework of 2014 addresses childrens' needs, agency and vulnerability to harm in todays' digital world and implies roles and responsibilities for a variety of social actors including the state, families, schools, commercial entities, researchers and children themselves. This volume presents a broad range of research, including chapters on parental supervision and control, the changing forms of play, early childhood education, media and cultural studies, law, design, health, special-needs education, and engineering. Implicit within this book is the acknowledgement that children of various ages, abilities, socioeconomic and geographic backgrounds should have equal access to, and positive / non-harmful experiences with, new digital technologies and content--as well as adult support and expertise that enhances these experiences. This wonderful book has global relevance, balancing childrens' embrace of digital content with adult responsibilities for education, privacy and protection. Professor Lelia Green,
