A timely and expansive survey of a groundbreaking American art movement that overturned aesthetic hierarchies in a riot of color and ornamentation The Pattern and Decoration movement emerged in the 1970s as an embrace of long-dismissed art forms associated with the decorative. Pioneering artists such as Miriam Schapiro (1923-2015), Joyce Kozloff (b. 1942), Robert Kushner (b. 1949), and others appropriated patterns, frequently from non-Western decorative arts, to produce intricate, often dizzying or gaudy designs in media ranging from painting, sculpture, and collage to ceramics, installation art, and performance. This dazzling book showcases an astonishing array of works by more than 40 artists from across the United States, examining the movement's defiant adoption of art forms traditionally viewed as feminine, craft-based, or otherwise inferior to fine art. In addition to offering an overview of the Pattern and Decoration movement as it is commonly recognized, this volume considers artists of the period who are not typically associated with the movement. Rethinking the significance of patterns and the decorative in postwar American art, this panoramic view provides new insights into abstraction, feminism, and installation art. Essays explore the movement's feminist methods and values, including Miriam Schapiro's "femmage" practice; its impact on contemporary abstract painting; and its relationship to postmodern architecture and design. Artist biographies, an exhibition history, and reprints of historically significant writings further establish With Pleasure as the most expansive publication on the subject.

This coil-bound publication is composed of twenty-six originally rendered coloring book pages drawn from details of the quilting designs in the Zadock Pratt Museum historical textile collection in Prattsville NY. Accompanying each page is a full color photograph of the actual quilt as selected from in the 2018 Zadock Pratt Museum quilting exhibit titled, "Undercover Stories". With a lively text describing the historical context of each selection, this book, together with its "mini-stories" and pictures, escort the quilt coloring book enthusiast through an easy read of the history of the quilt making tradition rooted in the rugged and romantic old Catskill Mountain Region of New York State—a micro-story mirroring the history of America. The researched texts begin in "A Note To Quilt Coloring Book Enthusiasts", the introductory essay outlining the panoramic story of the indigenous people of the Owasa Period 9,000 years ago, through the emergence of the Haudenosaunee (Iroquois) Confederacy, followed by the arrival of the German Palatine refugees fleeing King Louis XIV, and the founding of the settlement of Schoharie Kill—later renamed Prattsville. The stories continue, leading up through the American Revolution, the arrival of Col. Zadock Pratt, town founder of Prattsville (the first planned community in New York State, to the Civil War in which Zadock Pratt's only son, Col. George Watson Pratt, died from the mortal wound received while fighting for the abolition of slavery, the critical event that resulted in the creation of Pratt Rock as Prattsville's first Civil War memorial. Finally, the coloring book closes, as it opens, with the story behind the 21st century Presentation Quilt dedicated to town father Zadock Pratt, made by the 1st graders of the Gilboa-Conesville Central School in the neighboring town of Gilboa NY. This book also contains an Introduction by an internationally known quilt expert, an Afterword by the Pratt Museum Executive Director, and an Endorsement from the Assistant Director for History and Culture, Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian. A good, healthy, interactive experience blending a creative coloring experience with an immersion into early American history for young readers on up to adulthood.

A beautifully illustrated look at the work of one of today's most unique and exciting artists Bisa Butler (b. 1973) is an American artist who creates arresting and psychologically nuanced portraits composed entirely of vibrantly colored and patterned fabrics that she cuts, layers, and stitches together. Often depicting scenes from African American life and history, Butler invites viewers to invest in the lives of the people she represents while simultaneously expanding art-historical narratives about American quilting. Situating her interdisciplinary work within the broader history of textiles, photography, and contemporary art, contributions by a group of scholars—and entries by the artist herself—illuminate Butler's approach to color, use of African-print fabrics, and wide-ranging sources of inspiration.
