The Book has been described by others as A PRAISE AND WORSHIP MANUAL. It is designed as a reminder of the awesomeness of God by highlighting the wonders we take for granted such as the rhythm in the human body and the cosmos. The book concludes by enlisting praise worshippers to praise God on a daily basis using words from the Holy Scriptures.

Touching on anthropology, musicology, and the history of the United States and its military, Sound the Trumpet, Beat the Drums gives a thorough and satisfying account of mounted military bands and their cultural significance.

This book is for believers who wish to go deeper in the knowledge, love and service of the Most High. The exposition on the Feasts of the LORD is a simple summary of Leviticus Chapter 23 which is an aspect of our God that is rarely preached or discussed yet contains fundamental truths about the God we serve. The Feasts are centered on Christ and serve as God's Calendar for humanity. Many scriptures are listed to help us celebrate each day in His presence and lead our lives victoriously. The book can serve as both a reference book and a daily guide. Some hymns are included as ready reference for daily worshippers.

An exploration of musical expression in scripture and church hymnody.

The sound and the fury... On a dark night in Pennsylvania, a jazz legend met his death. But now, in the heat and light of Las Vegas, the sound of Clifford Brown's soaring trumpet is coming back to life. Because a man named Evan Horne, who knows all about jazz and pain, is unraveling a puzzle that reaches back forty years to Brown's last hours—and that has already gotten one person killed. Horne was called to Las Vegas to authenticate some recordings purported to be the lost tapes of Clifford Brown. But when a murder interrupts his listening session, Horne becomes the key player in a dangerous duet. Carrying a worn old trumpet that may have belonged to Clifford Brown himself, Horne is pursuing the truth behind an audiotape that may be worth a fortune, may be a hoax, and may be just one haunting melody in a killer's murderous obsession... Praise for THE SOUND OF THE TRUMPET: "Well written, plausible, and down to earth; recommended." —Library Journal "Fascinating insider information on various aspects of the jazz world. A must for jazz fans, who will appreciate Moody's grasp of the music." —Booklist "When Bill Moody writes about dead jazz musicians, you can hear the blue notes bouncing off the walls." —The New York Times Book Review "Moody writes beautifully...a gallery of colorful figures...distinctively pleasurable." —Publishers Weekly "For a lively trip into the...world of jazz musicians, and murder, there's no better guide than Bill Moody." —Tony Hillerman, author of the Leaphorn and Chee mysteries

Blow a Trumpet in Tekoa is a beautiful sound of the shofar awakening the Bride and preparing her for a returning King. This book is a simple teaching for Christians. The title comes straight from the book of Jeremiah. It was a war cry. When the trumpet was blown the people knew it meant one of several things-- war, danger, preparation, death, Shabbat or a High Holy Day. The sound said, "The High Holy Days are coming!" Then the people came together. That is what they were doing in the book of Acts in the upper room. Yes, they were coming together for a Feast they had been rehearsing for since the beginning of time-- now it was actually happening. The next sounding of the shofar blast will cry, "The Bridegroom is Here!" Some will have extra oil, others will not be prepared. Many of the prophetic teachings in this book are a long mournful cry for all of us to turn back to The Father and to heed his Commandments. Other topics are for healing, refreshing, and ultimately to draw one closer to HIM. The sound of the trumpet on the pages of this book will awaken you to a new walk and understanding of truths hidden for such a time as this. The beauty of the "Teki'ah," a burst and long shofar blast of triumph, joy, and gladness will ignite your heart as you see Yeshua in every detail of these Feast. The sound of Teki'ah announced the coming KING and today we are closer than we have ever been to His arrival.
