Currency markets are known to be dominated by news. But since news is rare, most currency pairs move sideways 80% of the time. In other words, it is very difficult to trade forex profitably with trend strategies. This series about forex trading therefore deals with strategies designed specifically for sideways markets. The "round number" in forex is an interesting phenomenon because mostly a lot of orders are waiting here to be executed. Those who study the charts of currency pairs will find that the market often turns at this so-called "round number" and at least temporarily begins to run in the other direction. In this first short ebook, Heikin Ashi Trader introduces two simple round number forex strategies. They are easy to understand and easy to implement (even with small accounts). These two strategies are excellent for traders who are looking for forex strategies that can be successfully traded with little analysis. 30 DAYS INVESTMENT BRING POSITIVE FINANCE & LIFE SETTLEMENT: GRAB THIS OPPORTUNITY. It's almost FREE. It's Your Classmate.....Many newer Forex traders fail because they try to run even before they can walk and have a tendency to grade their performance on a trade-by-trade basis, looking at each individual setup as if it's a war that must be won. This is simply not the case, and the reason is that the size of gains and losses are unequal and uneven. A trader could, theoretically, win only 10% of the time and still be profitable; provided that the one winner is worth more than 10x each individual loser. So, while this trader faces rejection 90% of the time, they'd still be profitable. They'll probably feel pretty negative most of the time, especially at first, as facing rejection 90% of the time is something that most human beings are simply ill-equipped for. Most new traders would be unable to get to this point, as the rejection faced 90% of the time would likely deter them from continuing to trade long enough to learn that winning percentage isn't the end-all be-all of trading in financial markets. Actually, You may be passionate about trading Forex, but that does not mean that jumping headfirst into the trading will do you any good. Consistent and long-term profitable trading in global capital markets can be a difficult prospect, especially for the newer trader. Sure, the idea of buying and holding might sound simple, like anyone can do it: And from an individual trade perspective, it might not appear to take any special skills or background to be able to sit there while a trade moves in the money for you, practically doing all of the hard work itself. But the reality of the matter is that doing this numerous times over an extended period has a tendency to expose weaknesses, whether they be in psychology, execution or a simple lack of experience. Like all other professions, Forex needs training and strong rules too to prevent loss & make huge money. Here, a period of theoretical education followed by a period of apprenticeship is what makes traders market ready
