The best part about being Christopher Bennett is that no one ever really says no to me. I'm persuasive. I'm witty. And boy, do I know how to turn on the charm. If only I could turn my family's attempts at persuasion off. Their meddling is out of control. No one asked them to matchmake. Certainly not me. And certainly not with an interior decorator raising her younger siblings. Then Victoria Hensley turns out to be more than just a decorator. Her laughter is contagious. Her beautiful lips and curves are beyond tempting. Sparks are flying between us, to my dismay and my family's delight. Next thing I know, I'm training her brother in soccer and reading bedtime stories to her sister. Who am I? Turns out I can't say no to Victoria. And I refuse to let her say no to me. I know I'm a client, that I'm technically off-limits. But doesn't that make it all the more exciting? I'm determined to see this thing through to the end. And I won't settle for anything less than a happily-ever-after.

I've always relished being a man of mystery. My LA hotel empire is public, but my private life as plain old Reid Davenport stays that way. Right up until it doesn't, and the tabloids threaten not just my privacy, but that of my family. I'd do anything to protect them from the limelight. But must it involve Hailey, the fiery PR consultant I can't stop fantasizing about? Hailey Connor keeps warning me she won't take on an uncooperative client. So why is she so compelled to help me? Maybe it's something about how her face softens when I talk about my family. Maybe it's because she genuinely wants to help. Or maybe it's my brooding demeanor that causes her to melt so fast when I kiss her. Even though I'm constantly infuriated by this little spitfire bossing me around, every time she smiles, I can't help wanting to pull her close and not let go. I think Hailey is starting to fall for me, despite being my polar opposite. But when our worlds collide, can I convince her we're a perfect match?

I know what people say about me. Eric Callahan, 'The Shark'. I own it. I'm a powerful man. My sharp business sense earned me that nickname. My façade is my armor. Underneath is where I keep the devotion I have for my daughter. Since her mother died, I've devoted my life to her. Expanding my business on the West Coast is one way to ensure I build the legacy she deserves. And that's all I plan to do for our three months in San Francisco. Until I meet Pippa Bennett. I swear, I didn't mean to start flirting with her. It was a complete accident. So was continuing. I can't resist the pull between us any more than I can change the tides in the Bay. We have the same sense of humor, we have chemistry for days, and she's as kind and sweet with my daughter as my family is. This is fast spiraling out of control. She's a divorcee, I'm a widower. Neither of us was prepared to take a chance on love again. Besides, we always had a time limit. But as it grows closer, I can't help but wonder—can I let her go, or could this one be forever?

I can already see the headlines: "Alexander Westbrook Buries Sorrows In Charity Work." No thanks. I don't want to be another one of those Hollywood actors, all PR and no heart. For me, giving back is the best part of fame, and to use my trip to the group home to get good press would taint that. Besides, my sister's been bugging me nonstop to find something—or someone—to distract me from the failed engagement to my former co-star. Enter Summer Bennett, volunteer at St Anne's and certified believer in happy endings. Spending time with her out of the spotlight is a sweet relief from my typical tabloid-ready life back in Los Angeles. The idea of spending the next two weeks with her is too good to turn down. Her entire body responds to a simple smile from me, and mine is helpless to resist her either. I can't risk my career for a girl. My studio contract doesn't allow it anyways. But I can't keep my hands to myself. Our secret kisses and whispered conversations have sparked a fire we're powerless to extinguish. How can I possibly turn our two weeks into something endless?

Take New York by storm and steer clear of serious relationships. That's the plan. That's the goal. It's easy too; now that my software company is making headlines. Nothing is getting in the way of that--not even my sexy personal trainer. I don't care how sexy and intriguing she is. Mel Dawson keeps talking me into doing things, like watching the sunset and slowing down to enjoy life. When she trains me, and I watch her body, I'm constantly fantasizing about exploring every inch of it all night long, claiming her mouth every time she gives me a sassy reply. I don't even know who I am when I'm with her. I'm suddenly a completely different man. But, I like this version of myself better. Mel's smart, determined, and keeps me guessing. She's everything I need and want, but I've been burned before. I'm used to taking chances in the boardroom, just not in my personal life. How much am I willing to risk for a chance to make her mine?

I was already pursuing her relentlessly before I met her son, but damned if that kid doesn't have me wrapped around his finger even faster than his mother did.
